Success at The Amberley Collection Launch

Nestled at the foot of the recently classified South Downs National Park, The Amberley Collection is the latest stunning new development from Martin Grant Homes. This is the second of only two new developments built in the centre of Storrington in the last two years, both handled by Guy Leonard and Company.

The Amberley Collection was launched in style with a drinks and canapés evening on 14th September, the success of which has led to three of these exclusive properties already being reserved.

Martin Grant Homes are renowned for their impeccable style, finish and careful choice of materials which demonstrate their innovation in design and environmental sensitivity. The six individually designed homes reflect this reputation and are beautifully finished, with exclusive features including low energy light fittings, solar panels on the five bedroom property and 'Villeroy and Boch' finished bathroom suites. The properties include two three bedroom detached bungalows, two three bedroom semi-detached houses, one two-bedroom detached house and one five bedroom detached house.

Each property has its own private parking or garaging, as well as private gardens with the guaranteed serenity of being located on a quiet tree-lined street. The properties have been specifically designed to blend with the existing plots around the site, and as a result contribute only further to the charming atmosphere of their prime location on the outskirts of the bustling village of Storrington.

The location of the properties not only boasts close proximity to the South Downs for plenty of wonderful weekend rambles, but also the convenience of being located close to the centre of Storrington. Here you have access to plenty of local amenities including food shops, antique stores, independent cafes, the post office, leisure centre, and a number of well-run public houses. The area also has great schools, train links and plenty of community run activities for all ages.

Whether you plan to raise a family, commute into London or retire to the quiet of the countryside, this development truly does feature something for everyone.
